BEEF OR PORK?

There was this cow and a pig in a barnyard. The pig frequently was unhappy and complained about his lack of popularity. He was unhappy because people were always talking about how gentle the cow was, and her kind eyes, and how much she had given to humanity. He acknowledged that the cow gave milk and cream, but he maintained that pigs give bacon and ham. Why were pigs so unappreciated? The cow chewed on her cud and thought. At last she said: "Could it be that I give while I am living, and you aren't worth a thing until you are dead?" — There it is, in this fable, a lesson for Christians. It is: It's not what is carved on your tombstone that counts, but what you do daily.
